The record of the children of Benjamin Piggott Sr. was furnished by Noah K. Williams from family records and from Hinshaw's Encyclopaedia of American Quaker Genealogy. This gives all of the children of Benjamin Piggott Sr. and it is probable that many of them moved from North Carolina to Indiana around 1829. He gives from his records all of the children of two of Benjamin Piggott Sr. children and follows a line from each to himself and to his wife.

Many descendants of Benjamin Piggott Sr. are still to be found in Indiana; from whence they migrated to many parts of the west.

Clarence E. Pickett, Executive Secretary of the American Friends Service, and his sister Minnie Pickett Boles who was prominent as a Missionary to Japan, descend from Picketts who came from Cane Creek Meeting in North Carolina. Clarence E. Pickett states that he is the youngest of eight children of Evan Pickett and Hulda Macy, his wife, and was born in Ill. He further states that his grandfather was named John and that he and his wife both died shortly after the birth of their first child. Before they were married they came from Cane Creek Meeting in North Carolina to Lost Creek Meeting in Tenn. and then to Clark County, Indiana, where their child Evan was born. He was unable to identify which one of several John Pickett's he descends from, but believes that any Pickett who came from Cane Creek Meeting was a descendant of our John Piggott Sr.
